The Draft Final Lansing Heritage Management Plan

The Lansing Heritage Site is located at the confluence of the Lansing and Stewart Rivers. The Lansing Heritage Site is significant because of its long history of use as a gathering place, trading post, and outpost. Lansing is important for its contribution to the identity and memory of the NND, other First Nations, and the history of the Yukon. The site includes a clearing with buildings, structures and landscape features such as a vegetable garden.

The draft final Lansing Heritage Management Plan provides a long term vision for the Lansing Heritage Site to ensure that the site remains in use for a variety of visitors, particularly for the NND, and other visitors arriving by river or air. Planning for the Lansing Heritage Site follows the principles expressed in the Standards and Guidelines for the Conservation of Historic Places in Canada, current best practices for the management of cultural heritage landscapes, and requirements of the NNDFSA.
